

TIGER IN MY SOUP

Kashmira Sheth

Illustrated by Jeffrey Ebbeler

Today, my big sister
is in charge of the house, the lunch, and
me.

I hold up my book.
“Will you read to me?” I ask.
“Not now,” she says.

I look at the pictures by myself...

downside up and upside down,

front to back and back to front,

with my eyes open and
with my eyes closed.

But it's no fun
doing it by myself.
